

Stalking Survivors

Can you help raise the profile of this serious issue?

A national reputable broadcaster has contacted the charity about a feature they are looking to run on male survivors of stalking – that is – men who are no longer being stalked.

The broadcaster would be happy for men to take part anonymously. If they wish they can be more open, but only if there was a criminal conviction involved.

The premise of the programme would be:

- to help the public understand the effect it has on a man's life
- to help society fully recognise that men are victims of stalking too
- give confidence to men who are going through this to recognise they are not alone and that there is help out for them.

If you are interested in taking part and have been a survivor for at least two years free from being stalked by an ex-partner, please contact the Chairman (Mark Brooks) via chairman@mankind.org.uk

Please be assured no details will be passed onto the broadcaster with your express permission.

Thank you.
